2 Little Coco looked like a winner over the home stretch last time but gave up easily at the end. Shorter distance now and good chance of finding the lead again, where he has never finished at least second in six starts. 3 Great Pulsion has developed nicely for Mattias Djuse and with some more luck last time he could have scored a victory in the V85. His form is good so he has to be considered again. 6 Kattbo Hunter was in tougher company in the last race and got locked in. 4 Bengt has shown good form and finishes strongly with the right trip.

4 My D.X.One has been competing in much tougher competition of late and done brilliantly. The four-year-old galloped just before the finish as clear second last time. He is both fast and strong and all-round, although the main scenario is that he leads this amateur race all the way. 6 Myspirit is very good for this company and can also open fast. 10 Blits Lane looked clearly improved in the last race and should be considered with the right trip. 3 Bull Woodland never got tired in the last race and had energy left over the finish.

3 Orazi Cesare was very heavily backed in the last V85 race at Romme, and rightly so. An optimistic Dalborg was optimistic but about the five-year-old galloped over the home stretch with seemingly energy left. 7 Yardbird is only three years old but has performed strongly since day one, also in tough company. Easier here. 1 Upper Tile has developed nicely for trainer Persson. Quick starter and could get a perfect trip. 2 King Dee Zet is developing well and possible too if improved.

6 Orion has been strong in tough company for Stefan Melander. The Orlando Vici-son has shown good capacity for this class and could be improved for trainer Westholm. 3 Sign Of Times won by a wide margin despite a tough start in the last race. The effort was good, even though the opposition was modest. The form and starting speed are top and from the lead she is a strong challenger. 5 Blinding Light has not shown his best side for a while, but is talented and the horse is interesting in this debut for a new trainer. 4 Bubble Marke likes to run in front and should be considered with the right trip.

11 Global Holdings has been strong in his two appearances and Nurmos is slowly but surely starting to get his three-year-olds going for the Criterion. 10 Iron Dice has done well so far, but the stable has higher expectations for the three-year-old. With interesting equipment changes he is taken seriously. 7 Mellby Onyx has won half of his four starts and has taken both wins from the lead. Early choice, although he was a bit mediocre last time. 1 Conrads Ove has shown talent and has started his career well. The speed is there, but the question is how he handles the inside track.

5 Altair was in a fairly modest group in the last race but decided very easily, just like the previous time when he met Conrads Ove. The development curve is pointing straight up and this proposition looks suitable to say the least. 10 La Fiesta Pellini was really strong in his debut for Troels Andersen last time and the five-year-old won't be any worse now that run under his belt. 9 The Hustler was sick in his last race. Otherwise he has good capacity for his class and in this type of race he should be considered despite ring rust. 11 Allant Express has shown documented form and will compete barefoot!
