2 Caspian Bro is of course hard to predict in this comeback, but the five-year-old is tremendous capable when he is at his best. Markus B Svedberg uses to have his horses well prepared. 9 Pehoe Boko is in much better form than the results show. The four-year-old is both strong and fast and also matched in tough company. 6 PG Persson looks to be on the way up again. If he reaches the front he can lead this all the way. 8 Global Grand Slam finished very strongly as third from first over in a V85 race when he competed over the short distance.

3 Cash the Booze never looked like a winner in his debut until the home stretch but he finished really fast. If the Ready Cash son avoids a mistake, he will be hard to beat regardless of journey. 1 Roy Palema is making progress with each race and got locked in with energy left behind the leader in the last race. Should get a nice trip again and is therefore an early contender behind the favorite. 11 M.T.Willie has been really strong and has proven that he can do it tough. 13 Defonte Goldneck has some wins in a row and is driven by Östre, who is in fine form.

Early contender. 2 Nest Egg Mearas has scored a couple of convincing wins. 4 Itwasmyfirsttime has shown great ability and taken both wins from the lead.

1 Michigan Bro looked really nice in the last race. Has run under his belt and can open fast, but it is far from certain that he will manage to hold the lead. At the same time he is strong enough to do it tough too. 2 Frazze gave away the lead to our pick in the last race and finished fast. Östre now! 12 From The Hip made a fully acceptable debut for this trainer last time and is certainly a lot improved now. 10 Slivovitz Lover has put in strong performances in tough companies.
